PARENTS FOR ANNA MARIA (BILGER) KOCH (1857–1945)

By Jan E. Tripp, Ann Arbor, Michigan

Koch family legend holds that Anna Maria Bilger was born in Germany and worked in France before coming to America as a single woman. She married Jacob Koch who came from the same place in Germany. Who were her parents and where was her ancestral home in Germany?

When I started the project, little was known about Anna Maria beyond her maiden name and a small family tree with birth and death dates of her children and spouse.[1] I located Anna Maria and Jacob in the 1900 census living in Calumet, Houghton County, Michigan. I learned that Anna Maria arrived in the United States in 1880 and married about 1882.[2] From there, I found an 1882 marriage for Anna Maria Bilger and Jacob Koch in Allouez Mine in Keweenaw County on the FamilySearch website.[3] Unfortunately Michigan marriage records of this period didn't give her parents names. I was able to narrow the birth place down from Germany to Württemberg, Germany but this was still too broad to begin searching German records.

I learned from census records Anna Maria and Jacob moved to Marion Township in Saginaw County and took up farming sometime before 1910.[4] Through Find A Grave, I located Anna Maria and Jacob's graves in nearby Ford Cemetery in Gratiot County.[5] At this point I had reconstructed several generations of Anna Maria and Jacob's family through census, vital, and cemetery records. Still, I was no closer to my original objectives of finding her parents and ancestral home. I thought my luck would improve with a trip to the Saginaw County Clerk's office to obtain a copy of Anna's death record as it would list the parents as well as her birth place. Much to my surprise, I could not locate a death record for Anna Maria or Jacob. I didn't have any better results finding her obituary using the online index at the Saginaw Public Library.

Failing to find any records that named her parents or ancestral home at this point, I turned my attention to Anna Maria and Jacob's 1882 marriage record. One of the witnesses to the marriage was "Johannes Bilger" of Allouez Mine. Perhaps this was a sibling, cousin, or other family member.

JOHANNES BILGER OF ALLOUEZ MINE

Studying Johannes Bilger proved rewarding. Through census research, I learned that he was born about 1865 in Württemberg and arrived in the United States about 1880. "John" was a miner and timberman in Atlantic Mine, near Allouez Mine.[6]

John's first marriage was to Mary Messner at Hancock, Houghton County, Michigan in 1892. She died in 1899 and John married again in 1901 to Katherine (Kleinhaus) Sanchagrin.[7] In his first marriage record, John identifies his parents as "Paul Bilger" and "Ursula Bilger." In his second marriage record, his parents are identified as "Paul Bilger" and "Mary Messner."

In 1923, the family moved to Flint, Genesee County, Michigan. The Genesee County Genealogical Society has a wonderful death index online where I learned John died in 1926 at Flint.[8] I then obtained his death record at the Genesee County Clerk's office in Flint. It listed his father as "Paul Bilger," born in "Germany" but gave his mother's name as "Unknown" born in "Unknown." At this point, I still had no idea how John Bilger might be related to Anna Maria but since I now had his exact death date, I located his obituary in the Michigan Newspaper Microfilm collection at the Library of Michigan.

John's obituary in the Flint Daily Journal didn't give more details about his origins, only noting that he was born in "Germany" to "Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bilger." However it mentions two surviving sisters "Mrs. Jacob Koch of Flint and Mrs. Lawrence Frazell of Saginaw" and one brother, "Mathew of Germany."[9]

I hadn't realized that Anna Maria had moved to Flint but that explained why my earlier search in Saginaw was unsuccessful. I later learned that she moved in with her daughter in Flint after Jacob died. Armed with this information, I easily found her 1945 death record at the Genesee County Clerk's office. It confirmed her father was "Paul Bilger" and "unknown" mother.[10]

MRS. LAWRENCE FRAZELL OF SAGINAW

A census search for "Lawrence Frazell" in Saginaw initially produced nothing. Searches of cemetery and obituary databases in the Saginaw area also produced negative results. As is often the case with German names, the surname is recorded as it was heard. This proved to be the case for "Lorenz Frasle" as he was usually enumerated. In 1894 Lorenz and Christina Frasle are enumerated in Allouez Mine.[11] Later, they are enumerated in the 1900-1930 censuses in Marion Township, Saginaw County, Michigan. From census records I learned that Christina/Christine was born about 1856 in Germany and arrived in the U.S. in 1876. She married Lorenz Frasle about 1881. She apparently died between 1920 and 1930 as Lorenz is widowed and living in Marion Township with his son John and daughter-in-law, Amelia.[12]

John Frasle's 1930 census record gives one very unusual piece of information. His mother's birth place is given as "Trossingen, Germany." The census enumerator was only required to record the county of birth, but in this case, he wrote down the name of the ancestral village!

TROSSINGEN, GERMANY

Today Trossingen is a city of about 15,000 in Baden-Württemberg, 70 miles southwest of Stuttgart near Lake Constance and the border with Switzerland. It is known as the "music town" and home of the University of Music Trossingen and Hohner harmonicas. Harmonica production in Trossingen began in 1832 by Christian Messner.[13]

ANNA BILGER'S GERMAN FAMILY

Now, I felt fairly confident that I knew the identity of Anna's parents and the ancestral home in Germany. It was time to look for Anna's family in German records! Using the Family History Library catalog at FamilySearch, I discovered that Trossingen church records dating from the early 1600s have been microfilmed by FamilySearch. An online database created from extracted birth, marriage, and death records is available online.[14] Using the database, I located an 1849 marriage record for Paulus Bilger and Ursula Messner,[15] an 1850 birth record for Mathias [Mathew] Bilger,[16] and an 1856 birth record for Christian[a] Bilger.[17] Additionally, the marriage record provided additional information about the parents. Paulus was born 11 September 1823 to Mathias Bilger and Christina Link/Linck.[18] Ursula was born 24 December 1826 to Christian Messner and Anna Marie Birk/Birck.[19]

As encouraging as this was, I didn't find birth or baptism records for either Anna Maria or her brother Johannes in the database. And there were other problems. Was the name of Anna's mother Ursula or Mary? Or Ursula Mary? I was also puzzled by the lack of Koch records in the database as Jacob was supposedly from the same place in Germany as Anna.

One of the first things you learn as a genealogist is to always examine the original record if possible. So I ordered the microfilm from FamilySearch.[20] What a surprise when the film arrived! Not only did I find birth records for Anna Maria and Johannes but additional unknown children of Paulus and Ursula (Link/Linck) Bilger. The database, created from extracted church records was, indeed, incomplete. Among the baptism, marriage, and death records, I found a collection of "familienregister" or "family register" records. This is like a "Family Group Sheet" familiar to genealogists. It lists parents, children, birth dates, death dates, as well as references to earlier and later generations of familienregister. They are considered secondary records but can be corroborated with primary information recorded elsewhere in the registers.

FINAL THOUGHTS

- Studying your problem ancestor's siblings can work around missing or non-existent records. Previously unknown siblings of Anna Maria Bilger separately provided clues that lead to her parents and her place of origin in Germany.
- The importance of reading original records. Only after looking at the original church records was it possible to confirm the births of Anna Maria and Johannes Bilger.
- When researching in a new area or time period, learn everything you can. In this study I had difficulty reading old German handwriting. Perhaps with more practice, I would have been able to decipher a few more generations of Bilger ancestry.

REV. FRIEDRICH SCHMID'S BAPTISMAL RECORDS, 1847–1874, WASHTENAW COUNTY, MICHIGAN (Part One)

Translated & transcribed by Rob Steward, 2014

We originally planned to conclude the Schmid baptism series at Part Five. We have since discovered more unpublished records covering the period 1847–1874. We continue the new series from Vol. 38, No. 1, p. 7–13 as Part One.

The original records of Rev. Friedrich Schmid are currently housed and may be accessed in The Michigan Historical Collections, Bentley Historical Library, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan.

We have maintained the spelling Rev. Schmid used in the case of names and places. Items enclosed in parentheses are usually comments or notes of the translators or indicate alternate spellings. The term "geb." refers to "born as" or maiden name.

Rev. Schmid's Baptismal Records are in column format as follows:
(Left hand pages – a.) "Chronological Number" of the child for that particular year; Name of Child; Parents Names; Place; Birth Date.
(Right hand pages – b.) Baptismal Date and Place; Sponsors Names (sometimes marital status or relationship of the sponsors are listed).
Columns with no entry or missing information are indicated by three hyphens (---).

The Genealogical Society of Washtenaw County, Michigan, Inc. 6 January 2015
To Accompany Family History Capers Vol. 38, No. 2

GSWC Meetings are held at 1:30 pm at the Education Center Auditorium, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Campus, 5305 Elliott Drive, Ypsilanti, Michigan, usually the fourth Sunday of the month, September to May.

Upcoming Meetings Winter 2015:

Sunday, January 25, 2015: "Digital Archiving in Genealogy" by Mark Middleton. This presentation includes capturing media from photos, books, home movies and audio recordings, creating computer files from the captured digital material, and archiving those files. Standards and equipment recommendations are covered. Class: "How to Determine if a Document is Trustworthy" by Devan Donaldson, U of M Doctoral Candidate.

Sunday, February 22, 2015: "From Roots to Branches: The Life of Henry Ford" presented by Steven Stanford. The man behind the Model T and $5 per day comes into focus as we learn about the people closest to him in his life–his family. Henry Ford's father and mother, his siblings, his wife, his son, and grandchildren all played important roles as Henry went from being a tinkerer to a tycoon. Class: "Using Facebook in Your Genealogy" by Katherine Willson.

Sunday, March 22, 2015: "The Underground Railroad in Washtenaw County" presented by Deborah Meadows. Learn about the Underground Railroad, and the African American Cultural and Historical Museum of Washtenaw County. Class: Genealogical Tips by John Colletta (via DVD).

Reports on Recent Meetings:
26 October 2014: "Over Wayne County Way" by Diane Oslund. Ms. Oslund guided the audience through the maze of documents that are available to genealogists who are researching Wayne County. There are several options on the internet such as Google, Mocavo, individual churches, and http://wayne.migenweb.net.

Ms. Oslund described the Wayne County and Detroit city clerk websites. These include vital records such as marriages and deaths.

Ms. Oslund also discussed the Burton Historical Collection of the Detroit Public Library and the Library/Archives of Michigan. Indexes for births, deaths and marriages; census and religious records; passenger lists; some land records; city directories; and newspapers are available.

Vital records and censuses can be located at the LDS Family Search website and Ancestry.com. For religious records, it was suggested that a church or denomination be contacted directly. The Mt. Elliott Association at http://www.mtelliott.com/genealogy/ has records from six catholic cemeteries.
Further questions? Visit Ms. Oslund's website at: http://www.dianesgenealogy.com

Reported by Janet Gilkey

Class: "Moving to Michigan" by GSWC Panel. Carolyn Griffin presented an example from her husband's family. William N. Griffin was born in 1801 in England, and died 1884 in Ovid, Michigan. She used census, newspapers, death certificates, www.findagrave.com, and Veteran's gravesites at: http://gravelocator.cem.va.gov/. Death causes in relatives who fought in the Civil War included measles and scorbutus/scurvy (vitamin C deficiency). One relative, Elmer Ellsworth, was the 1st Union soldier killed in the Civil War.

Judy Williston shared information about her Schnaubel and Williston relatives who emigrated from Germany to Michigan, and Cleveland, Ohio. She found them using German church records. She also used wills and marriage records. From one will she found the cost of the coffin and the carriages.

Marcia McCrary discussed her Bennett ancestors who came to Lowell, Michigan in 1856 (the date came from the flyleaf of the bible in her possession, and in an obituary of one of the relatives who was not a direct ancestor!) They lived in Onondaga County, New York, found using census, death records, and tombstones. How did they travel to Michigan? A family story says the Erie Canal. Why did they leave New York? A cousin found a newspaper clipping listing a bankruptcy. Reported by Marcia McCrary records are kept. Ms. Christein gave a brief overview of the history of the Archdiocese of Detroit including information about sacramental registers, what can be found in each type of register, where to find sacramental records, and what records the Archdiocese does not have.

23 November 2014: "Genealogical Research in Local Catholic Archives" by Heidi Christein. Researchers need an understanding of how Catholic

Ms. Christein explained the history of the Archdiocese of Detroit and the six counties now under its jurisdiction. In 1701 the Catholic Church in Michigan was overseen by Quebec. As the Catholic Church moved west, the headquarters changed. From 1800 to 1837 the territory of Michigan included Wisconsin and part of Minnesota. When Michigan became a state in 1837, this changed. Eventually, Marquette got their own bishop and Detroit became the headquarters for the lower half of Michigan.

Some pointers on records:

- -Sacramental registers include birth, confirmation, and marriage records. (These are kept at the local parish.) No death or adoption records.
- -If a parish closes, records are sent to the archives.
- -If a parish merges with another parish, the records are maintained at the merged parish.

Consult Ms. Christein by mail, telephone or email at archives@aol.org or call 313-237-5846.

Class: "Problem Solving in Washtenaw County" presented by the GSWC Research Committee. Nancy Krohn introduced those who deal with research requests on Washtenaw County ancestors. Tim Salatin explained that among the materials available at the joint LDS/GSWC Library in Saline are microfilms of birth marriage and death; probate indexes on microfiche; cemetery readings; Doll indexes to very early newspapers; correspondence indexes; and maps.

Marty Carr shared a request on the Taylor family who were here in the mid-1800s. She used the Pioneer File, Marguerite Lambert's "Newspaper Death Notices 1829-1867", city directories, plat maps, and the probate index along with other resources. Marcia McCrary told about a request for information on a burial in 1951 which was solved by finding the Burial Transit Permits stored in Superior Township. Jan Tripp discussed a request for a full birth date of a Miller who was born in 1855. Since the county records begin in 1867, Jan had to use the death certificate (found at www.seekingmichigan.org), and Highland Cemetery records, among other places. Nancy Van Blaricum demonstrated the materials available at www.chelsea.lib.mi.us, especially their obituary index. Kathy Allbaugh and Kathy Garbacik are also part of the Research Team who are present each Monday at the GSWC Library to help people who come for assistance with their genealogy.
